RE: Application for Hospital Medical Officer - PGY2 - 2026, VG/BRHS/MS/1890421

Dear Imogen Kelly,

I am an Australian citizen IMG with a passion for genuine patient-centred care and recent clinical experience in intensive care and emergency medicine. I am following AHPRA's Standard Pathway, currently holding limited registration, and a recommendation for Level 2 supervision from MonashHealth.

I have completed surgical training in Cardio-Vascular Surgery, and hold current certifications in Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) and Paediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS), both from the American Heart Association, as well as Advanced Trauma Life Support (ATLS) from the American College of Surgeons.

I am eager to learn and contribute my skills and experience to BRHS's local communities as a hospital medical officer and undertake any advised rotations. In reflecting upon my expertise founded over two decades spanning challenging, diverse and dynamic hospital environments, I believe three unique attributes stand out:

- Australian Health Experience: Under Monash's MiPreP training program, I have adapted to Australian healthcare practices, including navigating the National Health System, utilising the Cerner EMR for patient documentation and overall shown high competency.
- Exceptional ICU & Emergency Medicine Proficiency: Managed critical patients during the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic, in one of the most pandemic-stricken countries, performing high-risk procedures such as intubations while leading and fostering collaboration among multidisciplinary teams.
- Adaptability in Diverse Environments: Worked in diverse work environments from large public hospitals, offshore medical clinics and Latin America's largest oncological hospital (ICESP). Thus, demonstrating practical ability to navigate complex cases in rapidly evolving healthcare demands.

In summary, my extensive international experience in emergency and intensive care, complemented by supervised clinical rotations at Monash Health and observerships in rural Australia (Gippsland and Sale, Victoria), I bring a unique blend of advanced procedural skills, adaptability, and, as someone who believes everyone deserves genuine quality healthcare, I am personally eager to work together.

Having been born and raised in a small rural town, I understand the unique challenges and deep sense of community that define remote healthcare. And I want to learn more about the unique challenges the BRHS communities face and how I can help as an HMO. I would be truly honoured to be given the chance to prove myself and serve the people of this remarkable region.

Looking forward to hearing from you soon,
